N. Vietnam wants U. S. to halt offensive action

French students supported

PARIS (AP) — A nationwide general strike and massive anti-government demonstrations are slated to hit France today in support of a Paris student strike.

Leaders of student and labor groups planned to route a protest march far from the site of the Hanoi-Washington negotiations but one organization said it would march near there anyway.

The government has adopted a policy of leniency in dealing with the rebellious students, who in 10 days of a student walkout have on several occasions turned Paris streets into scenes of violent battle with police. French officials are likely, however, to use all means to prevent demonstrations near the peace talks, taking place about 300 yards from the Arc de Triomphe.

The march order was to mass on Place de la Republique, in a blue collar neighborhood on the right bank of the Seine at 3:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EDT). The march would cut through central Paris up Boulevard Saint Michel near the Sorbonne and end at Place Denfert-Rochereau, deep in the left bank.

The unions and student organizations are largely Communist and Socialist-led.

But one small, conservative group, the National Federation of French Students, said it would go to the Arc de Triomphe. Its reason: "To protest against the profaning of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier by the agitators of previous troubles."

In one conciliatory gesture, the government released all but four students arrested during more than a week of disturbances. The four have been given two-month prison terms for throwing cobblestones which injured policemen. All four will be released Monday, the government said.

Several independent unions are steering clear of the march and the 24-hour general nationwide strike.

Premier Georges Pompidou went on radio and television Saturday night to announce that the Sorbonne — Paris University — would be re-opened Monday. Word was passed that all students being held for questioning as a result of violence early Saturday would be released.

Saigon attack in 2nd week

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong brought their offensive against Saigon into a second week Sunday with attacks on two vital bridges in the capital's northern fringes while continuing a holdout in the rubble of a devastated neighborhood near a Y-shaped bridge leading to the Mekong Delta in the south.

U.S. F100 Super Saber jets hammered the holdouts Sunday night with bombing attacks that shook downtown Saigon, two miles away.

At the same time, the U.S. Command, reporting on the first week of fighting in the capital and its immediate vicinity, said allied forces had killed 2,982 enemy troops and took 261 prisoners. It said another 1,000 enemy were killed outside the capital area.

Allied losses were placed at 210 men killed and 979 wounded. These included 67 Americans killed and 333 wounded.

The new strikes by the Viet Cong on Saigon's northern fringes included attacks on bridges regarded as vital links for military and commercial traffic to the capital.

One was Newport Bridge, which leads to a U.S. Army dock facility. The assault started just after midnight with mortar and small arms attacks on the dock installations themselves. Three hours later, a charge set under the bridge ripped open a section of the west bound lane. U.S. officials reported, however, that traffic continued to move over the bridge on the undamaged lane.

The Americans returned the attacks with ground fire, gunship helicopters and fire from a Navy vessel offshore.

Washington's tourists dwindle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of tourists are coming to Washington as they do every spring, but their numbers are fewer than they might have been.

The Visitors' Bureau said the loss was caused by the civil disorders here last month and the uncertainty about what will happen during the Poor People's Campaign this month.

U.S. envoys ready counter proposals

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam issued a fresh call Sunday for a total cutoff of American operations against its territory on the eve of Paris talks over the war in Vietnam.

President Johnson's special envoys, W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, braced to counter Hanoi's move with demands for guarantees that the Northern Reds will not exploit any bombing halt.

The meetings begin at 10:30 a.m. (5:30 a.m. EDT) today in France's International Conference Center.

France has given assurances that a scheduled general strike in Paris would not hinder the talks.

Security measures will be taken to make sure the conferees are not disturbed. Thousands of labor union members are scheduled to march through the city in support of students demanding university reforms. The line of the planned protest march is more than two miles from the meeting site, but demonstrations may spread to other parts of the city.

The conference building will be supplied with its own electric generators and, although bus and subway strikes may cause traffic confusion elsewhere, officials will make certain traffic flows smoothly in the conference area near the Arc de Triomphe.

French authorities have accused a hard core of pro-Chinese Communists of riding the wave of student unrest.

Hanoi's call for an unconditional end to American attacks on the North, as the first step toward wider peace, was backed by the Russians.

In North Vietnam's capital the Communist party daily Nhan Dan recalled that President Ho Chi Minh had agreed to the Paris meeting only in order "to determine" a complete halt to all hostile American acts. The paper listed air and sea bombardments, reconnaissance overflights and leaflet, commando and waterborne raids as hostile acts.

"If the United States sincerely wants to hold further talks on questions of concern to both sides," Nhan Dan added in a clear reference to a general peace settlement, "it must immediately and unconditionally end the bombing and all other acts of war."

In Moscow, Pravda, the Communist party daily, echoed Hanoi's call and added that all American troops must quit South Vietnam.

Chemical warfare broadens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force is preparing to dump 10 million gallons of vegetation- and crop-killing poison over South Vietnam in the year beginning this July, officials say.

The move represents a broadening of the chemical warfare effort to strip jungle cover from and deny food to enemy troops operating throughout the South.

And it may result in a shortening of lawn and garden weed-killers used by American homeowners. Chemical producers last year were reported strapped just to keep up with defense orders.

Air Force officials told Congress last week the chemicals required for Vietnam operations in fiscal 1969 will cost $70.8 million, an increase of $24.9 over the fiscal 1968 figure.

In 1967 the Air Force bought $30.8 million in defoliants and herbicides to spray over enemy-held or enemy-used territory in South Vietnam.

The wide application of chemicals has brought periodic complaints from scientists and others that it may lead to more deadly chemical warfare or have enduring, nature-upsetting effects on South Vietnam.

The Pentagon says the chemicals are harmless to humans and animals, and do not make the soil sterile for future growth.

Officials said in response to questions that over 90 per cent of the chemical program is designed to kill jungle growth concealing known enemy staging areas or removing potential ambush concealment from along roads, rail lines and canals used by U.S. troops and civilians.

Flights of Air Force C123s equipped with 1,000-gallon chemical-dispensing tanks began in 1962 with a modest 107 missions.

Mac, Kennedy speed-up campaign; Nixon ready

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Democratic Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy campaigned busily Sunday, with the prospect that Tuesday primary ballots for President Johnson and write-ins for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey could cloud their head-on contest.

Serenely confident he can fend off a hastily-organized write-in effort for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and the on-the-ballot appeal of California Gov. Ronald Reagan, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon skipped the final days of campaigning in the Republican test.

Kennedy, traveling across southern Nebraska, was driving for the majority of the Democratic vote that he felt short of achieving in his first face-to-face test with McCarthy in Indiana's May 7 primary.

Large crowds—as primaries go—responded enthusiastically to his appeals for help along the road toward the Democratic presidential nomination. Admirers in South Omaha blocked his exit route, tossed him about then ripped off his disposable cuff links Saturday night as they fought to touch his hands and clothing.

McCarthy, calm and collected, provoked no such demonstrations from the generally smaller crowds that came out to hear him as he continued his slow-paced and often haphazardly scheduled campaigning.

In the well-organized Nixon camp there was a strong final hour effort to spark a turnout that would give him a wide margin to promote the winner's image he wants to stave off Rockefeller and Reagan threats at the Miami Beach, Fla., GOP convention. Former Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton of Hastings, long-time ally of Nixon, said he would be satisfied with 51 per cent of the vote. But unless unexpected strength develops for Rockefeller and Reagan, most observers think the margin will be much higher.

Senate may stall school aid bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — A House-passed bill that would provide $27 million in state aid for nonpublic schools goes to the Senate today — and it is likely to stay there for some time.

Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup, R-Bedford, said the Senate would probably take a long and careful look at the bill before taking any action.

"I don't think anybody can expect the Senate of Pennsylvania to pass this bill just like that simply because it passed the House," Stroup said. "I'm not opposed to aid for the nonpublic schools, but the Senate must take its own look at this legislation."

The bill, approved by the House last week, would create a special authority to purchase educational services from private and parochial schools. The authority would be financed by 15 per cent of the state's annual cigarette tax collections.

Gov. Shafer had tried unsuccessfully to have the bill amended to substitute funds from horse racing revenues for the cigarette tax to finance the program.

Shafer also wanted the Department of Public Instruction (DPI) to administer the program rather than a special authority.

Stroup said he favored both of Shafer's proposals.

"I think many of us (in the Senate) would look affirmatively on an amendment to allocate the first $10 million collected from horse racing revenue, plus one half of any excess, to the nonpublic schools," Stroup said.

Earlier, Shafer had estimated that the state could obtain about $8 million from flat track racing in 1968-69. Flat racing was approved by the legislature last year, however, no tracks have yet been opened.

The governor has threatened to veto any nonpublic school aid bill that calls for more than $10 million in state funds.

Shafer also has warned that he will veto a salary bill for the state's public school teachers if it involves more than $36 million.

A joint House-Senate conference committee is scheduled to meet again today to try to resolve an $18 million difference of opinion over the teachers' pay bill.

The House version of the bill calls for $54 million to boost salaries, while the Senate plan would cost $36 million.

Sen. Preston B. Davis, R-Northumberland, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said the conferees would have to make an effort to meet their tentative May 15 deadline.

"We've got to settle it (the pay bill dispute)," Davis said.

Happiness and sorrow for miners

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (AP) — It was a different scene and mood Sunday for 15 men who spent five days trapped in the flooded tunnel of a coal mine.

All but two of the miners left Sacred Heart Hospital in nearby Richwood where they underwent physical examination after their rescue early Saturday. The other two — Oscar Dillon and Isaac Casto — will remain for rest and further examination.

Another 10 miners — entombed deeper in the shaft when water poured into the passageways Monday from an adjoining mine — are presumed dead. There has been no contact with them since noon Monday but the search is continuing as giant pumps try to drain the tunnel.

Good Morning!

Many a house has been "juggled" by miniature snooping devices for several years. They repeat every word all over school, too.

Leaves house to widow

Dr. King almost penniless at death

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., often said money corrupts. And he practiced what he preached—he left little of it. Most of the monetary legacy he could have left his widow and four young children he gave away in his lifetime—the royalties from his books and his $50,000 Nobel Peace prize money.

He left no estate, except the house he lived in and two joint bank accounts—both too small to be probated.

Undoubtedly the largest legacy he left, however, is the will to fight for his cause. His widow carried this "will" into Washington, D. C., Sunday, as she led a Mother's Day march in support of increased welfare benefits.

The march was the nation's capitals first mass phase of the Poor People's Campaign Dr. King had planned and was to have led.

And, despite the constant threats of danger under which the civil rights leader lived, he left no will.

He had faith, said a close associate, that his family would be cared for.

"If somebody asked him for money and he had it, he would give it to them," the Rev. Andrew Young, a close friend and associate of King, said in an interview.

Young, who was with King when he was felled by a sniper's bullet in Memphis April 4, added, "When I took his wallet out of his pocket at the hospital in Memphis, I found a lot of credit cards but there was no money in it."

Attorney Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago, who handled legal affairs for King and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press:

"He didn't have any estate." The house in which King lived was virtually paid for when he was killed, Eskridge said. And mortgage insurance paid up the balance.

When King moved into the simple, brick house in a low-income area in west Atlanta three years ago, he said then it cost $10,000 to buy and about $14,000 to remodel.

The floors were redone, the kitchen enlarged and brought up-to-date with modern equipment. The furniture, while not lavish, is comfortable and attractive. There is a large television set in the den and another in the main bedroom.

"He had two bank accounts, joint accounts with his wife, under $5,000," Eskridge said. "These were passed by what we call small estate affidavits. So this left him with no estate to probate."

Mrs. King has declined to say what insurance her husband left her. But Young said top executives in SCLC carry something like $25,000.

"The staff had always talked about a major insurance policy on Dr. King's life but we never got around to it," Young said.

Your Horoscope By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Be careful about those "bargains," the "sure things" which are so often deceptive. Don't follow anyone who offers no rational reasons for his actions.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — A better than average chance to do a good job where you must, and to put in the extra effort that makes the difference between top-grade and so-so results.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Avoid a tendency toward nervous tension now. Don't try to rush things and don't fret, even though associates or members of the family may prove annoying at times.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may have to cope with a different type of person and with some different activities now, but don't let these things get you down. Put forth your finest endeavors and you should do well.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A better day than you may think at first. Things should turn out satisfactorily if you will master your emotions. Seek out the hidden opportunities.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Both physical and intellectual labors favored now. You may be quite determined, in your own silent way, to insure a secure future way of life. Original thinking will smooth the way.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — When asked for use of your inborn know-how and remarkable skills, you are proud to assist. Do not mind if this day is a "driver" in this respect. You will just achieve more!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Don't allow your enthusiasm to get the better of you. Your ambition should be controlled when its realization makes you ruthless with others.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — An early start can save energy, nerves, and avoid retracing steps later. Do not be beguiled by surface "gloss." Look into the heart of things; search for true values.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Generally, aspects urge a freer attitude toward giving, endowing, bestowing rewards. Spur the lagging incentive of another. It will benefit more than condemnatory censure.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — A thoughtless move may have more repercussions than you may anticipate. So be alert. A favorable time for adopting advanced methods, for learning, self-development.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — There are people depending on you. Do not fail them. Your best demeanor and attitude is urged. Live up to your innate understanding of others.

YOU BORN TODAY are thinker AND a do-er. With your endurance and practicality, you can accomplish many things which others would hesitate to undertake or would attempt ineffectively. You always find life interesting, and are continually seeking the rewards of profitable adventure and helpful experience. You would make an able surgeon.

Murdered man's heart beating

Transplants pose legal problem

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A longshoreman has been charged with the murder of a man whose heart continues to beat.

The victim was declared dead by the county medical examiner's office three hours before the hospital said he died.

Sound strange? Legal, medical and hospital authorities say the situation may even get stranger.

The question as to when a person is legally dead arose a week ago after a surgical team at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital performed its third heart transplant operation in five days.

During the surgery the heart of Clarence Nicks, 32, was implanted in the chest of John Stuckwisch, 62.

Nicks, victim of an April 23 beating, was declared dead at 10:30 a.m. by Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, county medical examiner, when he was notified that the attending physician could find no electrical activity in the patient's brain and no evidence of life.

Jachimczyk said he was then told by Dr. Denton A. Cooley, head of the transplant team, that Nicks' heart was being kept alive with mechanical devices and, therefore, Nicks was not dead as far as the hospital was concerned. The doctors used the term "viable" concerning the heart—meaning "capable of living."

The transplant team notified the medical examiner that the heart had ceased functioning at 1:58 p.m. The surgery in which Nicks' heart was implanted in Stuckwisch's chest began six minutes later.

Since Nicks' death was ruled a homicide, the transplant posed other questions:

—An autopsy is required in homicide cases and could an autopsy report be considered complete with the heart missing?

—If a total autopsy was impossible could it affect the prosecution and defense in a murder trial?

—Could a heart transplant team be prosecuted for interfering with a planned autopsy by removing a homicide victim's heart?

"Perhaps homicide cases will be excluded as transplant donors," Jachimczyk said.

Jachimczyk said philosophers and theologians have been arguing for centuries just when death actually occurs—when the brain for all practical purposes is dead with no chance to regain function, or when the body tissues fail?

He said legally the answer is simple. Death occurs when the attending physician says a person is dead. This was the case with Nicks.

Although Jachimczyk ruled that Nicks died of brain damage, he said prior to the autopsy that defense attorneys very well might contend that Nicks was not killed in the beating but by the transplant or by something that occurred in between.

"The question is whether we are striving for successful prosecution or the ultimate benefit of an individual," Jachimczyk said. "Because I am a physician as well as a medical examiner, I can fully understand the dilemma."

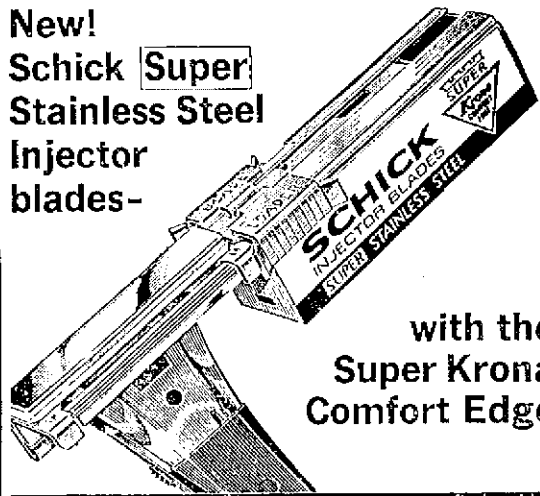

Jachimczyk met with the surgical team and hospital officials following the transplant to start work on the development of guidelines.

"The guidelines we come up with may provide the precedent for the country," he said.

PV students learn by on-job training

By FRED WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter
BRODHEADSVILLE — A cooperative program of education and on the job training has been working successfully with a worthy list of rewards by students and cooperators alike.

The program is under the supervision of Clifford Stroud, vocational agricultural instructor at Pleasant Valley School, and advisor to the school's Future Farmers of America Chapter for which the training program is being set up.

Four students are active in the program this year which started in September and will continue until the end of the school year.

John Stroud, senior, son of Mr. Stroud of Gilbert, has chosen horticulture and landscaping as a vocational agriculture business venture, working at Miller's Flower Shop and Greenhouse in Scottdale.

Enjoys the work

"I have always enjoyed this kind of work and have done some gardening at home, besides studying it in school. But this is really better; I can learn a lot more than in school right here while I'm doing things. Mr. Miller is really terrific, showing me every phase of the job, carefully and patiently," he said.

Dale Burger, senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Burger, Kunkletown, R.D. 2, is learning a strong phase of the agricultural business — the farm supply and feed store, working at Paul Everett's Feed-Grain and Farm Supply Store in Gilbert.

Besides running the feed mill, grinding and mixing livestock rations, Dale also gets some experience in the farm supply line by learning about commercial products and materials and how to sell them.

Father and son team
Gary Altomose, senior, likes the technical and mechanical line of doing things and is under the job training program with his father, Irv Altomose, learning to run the complete business of a service station and garage.

Mr. Altomose said this is the greatest thing for these young people. Not only will they learn a job and a business, but most of all they get to meet people, talk to people and learn to handle themselves with people.

Niles Prantz, senior, is the only one in the chapter to stay with full time farm operation and holds the only Keystone Farmer Degree in the Pocono Chapter.

Niles is in partnership with his father, William Prantz, running the farm operation together in Brodheadsville.

Also, Glen Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martin, McMichaels, is active in managing the riding stables at the Sunnybrook Farm.

State requirements
Under the State rules outlining this type of training, a minimum of 150 hours is set that the student must work during the one year program.

"Our boys average better than 1,000 hours during the year," Stroud said.

There are various ways in which the program can be implemented, depending on size of school, number of candidates and participants and supervisory personnel.

Master plan is tabled

BUSHKILL — Official action on the master plan for Lehman Township was tabled indefinitely by the Board of Supervisors at their regular meeting Friday night.

Supervisors tabled the action since present highway plans for the area and region are only tentative. Supervisors also felt that other technical phases needed more study.

The success of the master plan depends largely on roads which the Army Corps of Engineers would have to relocate. The township will lose several miles of roads due to the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

The relocation of Bushkill depends largely on whether the federal government will relocate the roads as outlined in the master plan.

In other action, Stewart Schoonover was appointed as a building inspector. Franklin Riedmiller is already an inspector. Supervisors also approved the application of two building permits for homes.

Greene Twp. enacts one ordinance

GREENTOWN — Greene Township Supervisors, meeting in the Promised Land Firehouse in a special public session, adopted an ordinance establishing a fee of $25 for receiving an application in the enforcement of Pennsylvania's Sewage Facilities Act.

An ordinance regulating trailer coaches and trailer parks was not adopted as advertised. A hearing on the ordinance was held Friday night with several suggested changes being taken under advisement by the supervisors.

One portion of the ordinance, which delayed the adoption, concerned camp sites which are actually already regulated by the state.

Northampton defers action on area jail

EASTON — The Northampton County Commissioners deferred action Thursday on a request by Monroe County Commissioners to join in a plea for construction of a regional state correctional institution.

A letter from the Monroe County Commissioners noted that both counties are in Region II, a 15-county area in Northeastern Pennsylvania, in which such an institution is proposed.

The counties would benefit if the construction of such an institution eliminates the county jails, it was noted.

The Monroe officials said they would benefit especially because the Tocks Island Dam project is expected to bring many people to their area.

First annual exhibit

600 attend DV's gymnastics show

MILFORD — More than 600 persons attended the two hour first annual gymnastics show at the Delaware Valley High School during which girls and boys exhibited numerous gymnastic techniques.

Area residents attending the show last Friday, although unfamiliar with gymnastics, sensed the more difficult routines immediately and showed an enthusiastic response to the activities.

Boys' activities
The boys' gymnastic club presented routines on the horizontal bar, still rings, parallel bars, pommel horse and the flying rings.

The girls' activities included a rhythmic exercise routine done by the seventh and eighth grade girls' physical education classes and a wand drill and tumbling stick drill done by selected members of physical education classes. Routines on the uneven parallel bars, advanced tumbling skill, and free floor exercise were presented by the girls' gymnastic club.

The highlight of the evening was an adagio dance by Eileen Ambler and Joseph Corcoran.

Girls' gymnastic club
The members of the Girl's

Gymnastic Club are: Veronika Rafalski, Roxanne Smith, Patricia Hall, Carol Bloomgarden, Rosalyn Holleran, Denise Dilger, Dale Hosaek, Carolyn Forsythe, Bell Hodges, Cynthia Reed, Sue Tinsman, Marie Ricciardi, Lou Anne Piccirilli, Vickie Helms, Sue Rafalski, Eileen Ambler, Nan Ryder, Shirley McKean, Georgia Snyder, Donna Burd, Marie Krause.

The members of the Boy's Gymnastics Club are: David Basham, Donald Knight, Anthony Affigne, Robert Rohner, Richard Georgi, Joseph Corcoran, Gale Adams, Gary Ziegler, Timothy Stroyan, Jay McCaslin, Michael Oravec, Robert Ramagosa, Allen Ambler, Art Zulick, Edward Gavolla, Bernie Innella, Robert Schafer, Edward Snyder, Kenneth Vandermark, Ronald Houghtaling.

Miss Mary Jane Gilpin and Coach Ronald Robacker are the sponsors of the gymnastics clubs and were the directors of the show.

Sawmill will be erected in center of Newfoundland

NEWFOUNDLAND — Coming to Newfoundland soon, if plans mature, is a modern version of what was probably one of the oldest industries in the Pocono Mountains.

Of special interest is the proposed lumbering project: the construction of a new sawmill which may, in time, become an attraction for the tourists and visitors here.

The new sawmill is planned for what would be Newfoundland's Main Street, if it had one, Routes 191-507, near the fire house.

Involved in the construction of the new facility is the Newfoundland Lumber Company of which Donald Frick of Sterling, is president.

Plans call for construction of a 45-by-120-foot fully-enclosed sawmill for the manufacture of rough-sawn lumber.

Also in the planning stages is a "visitor's room" in the building, where vacationers may view the operation. The owners envision a room of barn timbers, rustic in design, where the visitor may see this oldest of industries in full swing.

Politics remain on private list

Last week the Monroe County Commissioners refused two union representatives access to the county voter registration file. We heartily agree with the decision.

The union representatives wanted to know who was registered and how they were registered. This is private information and should never be made public.

We have long classed a man's politics with religion and family life. They are private matters and should never be shared with anyone outside the family range, unless the individual so desires.

It is nobody's business as to how an individual is registered or how he votes. It is the constant emphasis on Republicanism and Democratic registration that sometimes turns politics into a brand of humor that would have been popular on the old vaudeville stage.

Commissioners offered to give the union representatives the street voter lists, on which is marked names, addresses and party affiliation.

We would rule out this information also. Whatever the person inside the given residence wants as far as politics is concerned is his business, and only that individual can present the information.

It is our hope that some day there will be no political party and individual candidates will be elected on their merit, and not on the strength their given party is able to rally.

It is our feeling that an elected official, under the current political structure, is obligated to state his political party affiliation. Otherwise, that information should remain classified.

Many good individuals have been passed over because they belong to the "wrong" party. This has been a fact since almost the founding of the United States.

We could never see a man's political party affiliation governing his ability, providing he isn't linked with a subversive activity.

Political affiliation is a man's private affair and need not be shared with anyone.

Guard against dangers

National Bicycle Week passed last month and National School Safety Patrol Week ended on Saturday. It is then fitting that we issue another warning, which in turn grows from activities witnessed on the safety weeks mentioned.

Bicycle riding is a hazardous undertaking at best. It is dangerous for the bike rider and for the driver of an automobile, who more often than not is the victim of circumstances in an accident involving the two means of transportation.

We have noticed a great deal of bike riding on the sidewalks of both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg recently. We have noticed an almost total disregard for the motorist by the cyclist.

With this disregard plainly visible, several children narrowly missed being struck by cars while riding on the sidewalks of the neighboring boroughs in recent days.

Cars coming out of garages and off street parking lots are at the complete mercy of bike riders, who dart out from the side of a building and from the midst of sidewalk crowds into the path of the unaware motorist.

We feel that bicycles should never be ridden on sidewalks and care should be exercised to the fullest extent of one's ability, regardless of where the bike riding takes place.

There's no substitute for care and safety—especially to a bicycle rider.

With Gene Brown

The young man had parked his car and turned to the pretty young girl seated beside him.

"Darling," he gushed, "your eyes are like limpid pools, your lips are like a cupid's bow, your hair is like a waving field of grain... but those eyes?"

Overcome and bored, the girl sighed and said, "They came with my head!"

Bragging at the country store, a farmer announced, "The man who marries my daughter will get a prize."

"That sounds interesting," said one of the boys who was hanging about. "What's the prize?"

Pennsylvania Congressman John H. Dent, great battler for "Jobs After 40," chuckles at the story of Pres. Grover Cleveland being awakened by a butler who whispered, "Mr. Pres., I think there are burglars in the house."

Still sleepy, Cleveland replied, "In the Senate maybe, but not in the House."

A visitor was being guided through a mental hospital. In one ward was a man with his head in his hands, crying piteously, "Mary, Mary."

"That's a very sad case," explained the doctor-guide. "Twenty years ago this man fell in love with a girl named Mary. She jilted him and he never got over it."

Later, in another ward, he ran across another man, crying piteously, "Mary, Mary."

"Say," remarked the visitor, "that Mary must have been a real go-getter."

"No," said the doctor, "that's the man who married Mary."

Real 'Rocky' stands up

WASHINGTON — The real Nelson Rockefeller is standing up, giving!

—Support for Vietnam.

—Life to the lagging race for the GOP Presidential nomination.

—Evidence he can win Republican votes against Republican opposition.

Rockefeller has ended his long and unnatural silence on Vietnam by warning that the United States must not accept any settlement which fails to guarantee the people of South Vietnam the right "to determine freely their own destiny."

His active candidacy adds zest and competition to the one-man GOP race which threatened to become a fateful dull.

He beat all comers in the Massachusetts GOP primary, getting a higher write-in vote than favorite-son Gov. John Volpe and running well ahead of Richard Nixon.

That's quite a beginning. It doesn't mean that Rockefeller is near to catching up with Nixon, but it does mean that the GOP nomination will be seriously contested and that Nixon can no longer take anything for granted.

Rocky's first pronouncement on Vietnam in two years, to the World Affairs Council in Philadelphia, averts the opposition—perhaps even wins the support—of General Eisenhower. In the Reader's Digest he sternly warns his party:

"I will not personally support any peace-at-any-price candidate who advocates capitulation and the abandonment of South Vietnam."

Rocky's Philadelphia speech clearly meets this Eisenhower requirement. It is critical of President Johnson's conduct of the war, both politically and militarily—as Eisenhower has been privately—but it supports the wisdom of defending South Vietnam against Communist expansion-by-force and warns against accepting any peace settlement "dictated by force" and imposed on the people of South Vietnam either by North Vietnam or by the United States.

Finding real answers

WASHINGTON — Only a few days after making a stirring speech praising the New York City Police Department, Rep. John M. Murphy (D., N.Y.) was fined $25 and had his car impounded for illegal parking.

Murphy, late for a television interview, had taken a chance and parked his car outside Rockefeller Plaza, where the National Broadcasting Co. has its studios. When he came out, an hour later, his car was gone and somehow he just knew it hadn't been stolen.

The Congressman checked with police, who said, "Yes, we have it." And Murphy knew just where to go to pick it up, the impounding lot near the Hudson River docks. It seems, ironically, that Murphy has been spending a lot of time there lately, talking to indignant auto owners.

More in sympathy

"I didn't expect to be one of them," Murphy said, "but, in a way, I'm just as glad it happened. Now I'm more in sympathy than ever before with the plight of motorists seeking parking places in the downtown areas of our big cities."

Unless something is done soon to relieve their suffering, Murphy said, the business sections of cities such as New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia (and even smaller communities without adequate parking) are just going to wither and die.

"And simply towing away illegally and irresponsibly parked cars, to speed up the flow of traffic, is not the answer," Murphy said. "That's Mayor Lindsay's solution. It may help to keep cars moving, but that doesn't allow their drivers to park and do business or shop, does it?"

Of course, Murphy is not likely to take a charitable view of anything Lindsay does, since he hopes to run against him for mayor in 1969. On the other hand, Lindsay may be running for governor then, so the two may never meet in political combat.

Murphy's solution: City government should float bond issues to build huge municipal garages under city-owned parks, libraries and other buildings, just as communities sell bonds to build highways and bridges. Then, in order to be fair to commercial parking lot operators, the municipal garages could be leased to them to operate on a competitive-bid basis.

The parking lot operators would make money, the government would make money, people would have places to park, and downtown areas would see increases in business. Unfortunately for Murphy, his idea probably makes too much sense to be accepted. That's the way it is, you know.

The problem today would seem to be a surplus of candidates and a shortage of ideas.

Well, the telephone strike is over. Now, if we could only end the "slowdown" at the Post Office.

Judging from the money spent there during the primary, if elections came every year Indiana would soon be the richest state in the Union.

Harris Survey

Majority of Americans favor continuation of draft system

By LOUIS HARRIS

Despite rising controversy over the draft, a majority of Americans still favor, by a 53 to 36 per cent margin, continuation of the present system of drafting young men. The ending of deferments for graduate students is endorsed by the general public by 52 to 34 per cent. By a 54 to 32 per cent count, people reject substituting a lottery system among 19-year-olds for the present draft setup.

These majorities supporting the draft, however, do not mean that the American people are entirely satisfied with the way the system is working during the Vietnamese war. A high 77 per cent believe that there is extensive draft dodging. And a plurality of those who either have a family member in the armed forces or one subject to call label the present system unfair.

Recent surveys on college campuses have indicated that students are sympathetic with young men who feel that they should not fight if they feel the Vietnamese war is morally wrong. By 65 to 25 per cent, the public disagrees and thinks such draft resisters should not be exempt from military service.

Opinion stable

Basically, public opinion on the draft has remained relatively stable over the past year, mainly because no concrete alternative that has been suggested has been able to muster anything approaching majority support.

But those with relatives directly affected by the war are now showing definite signs of feeling that the draft is discriminating against their sons and family members in uniform or about to enter the armed services.

Here is the overall reaction of the public to the present draft system:

	PRESENT DRAFT SYSTEM		Not Sure
	Favor	Oppose
	Per Cent	Per Cent	Per Cent
Nationwide	53	36	11
Relative in service	50	42	8
Relative subject to draft	46	44	10

	FAIRNESS OF PRESENT DRAFT			Not Sure
	Fair	Unfair	Per Cent
	Per Cent	Per Cent	Per Cent	Per Cent
Nationwide	48	40	12
Relative in service	45	45	10
Relative subject to draft	42	46	12

The alternative to the present draft system most consistently put forth by its opponents is a lottery under which all young men would be equally subject to call. Once this preliminary selection was made, those not drafted could

Golf forms tigers

Golf makes tigers of the most placid of men. More and more characters are on the fairways, hacking, scuffing, sweating and cursing.

A father who wouldn't drive to a corner butcher shop to get two bits worth of bologna for his starving kids will wait an hour and a half for starting time, and then tip the starter.

The game is Social Security's answer to pro football. It's the aging husband's response to the wife's taunt: "If you want to carry a bag on your shoulder, carry me." It is male bingo; Mao think; death in the afternoon; hostility in a cart; Frank Merriwell's Revenge; the beach boy in arch supporters; the ultimate frustration.

There never was a happy golfer. Golfers are happy before they get on the first tee. Their innocence is touching. They sincerely believe that this is going to be the day. It never is, of course. Never. Even if a golfer shoots par, he will cry about two or three putts that should have dropped in the cup.

Avoids happiness

The serious golfer studiously avoids happiness in all its forms. He cultivates misery. From the opening shot, a nice clean duck hook into the rough, he will gnash his teeth, about the same four-letter word every time he sees his ball in flight, pound the club into the turf, seethe through his nostrils, and allow his fellow sufferers only 10 seconds of tears after which he murmurs: "I know, I know," and misses his next shot.

Any man who enjoys golf doesn't understand the game. Primarily it is a target device. A four-and-a-quarter-inch cup is placed at varying distances from an elevated tee, and the trick is to see how few strokes it will require for Dummy to tap it in. Between the player and the hole, there is a long bowling alley of grass, flanked on either side by trees, tall range grass, basins of sand, running brooks and lakes.

A man who couldn't hit the sod if he fell out of a cart will blow a couple of hundred beans for clubs, bag, spiked shoes, shirts, slacks and those elusive white pills. If he is a normal golfer, he will take several practice swings, each one a marvel of fluid grace. Then he will put a ball down, take a roundhouse swipe, come up off both feet, and hammer the ball into the ground.

He is fascinated with the long ball. On the rare occasion when one flies out straight and long, he says modestly: "It'll play." He thinks the short approaches to the green, the shots out of the trap, and the putting are not worth studying. All he cares about is being a killer on the tee.

Well, man and boy, I've been hacking for 27 years and none of it has been fun. Recently, I went out on the Diplomat course with Bernard Castro, who makes convertible couches—I wish he could make a convertible golfer: Gene Kroll, a Ford dealer; and Rocky Marciano, who used to punch the hell out of people for money.

Of the four, Castro plays the steadiest game. He's a bogey man. Kroll is a golf scientist. When he misses—which isn't often—he enjoys a post mortem. Gene shoots an easy 83. Rocky beams like a child and hauls off and belts make plans for schooling and other activities. Those drafted could not receive occupational deferment.

The national probability cross section of 1,612 households was asked:

"It has been suggested that the draft be changed so that 19-year-old boys would be subject to a draft by lottery—that is, any 19-year-old can be drafted, and, if qualified, would serve in the armed forces. For those chosen, it might mean no deferment for college or any other reason. If you had to choose, would you favor the present system or the lottery system for drafting 19-year-olds?"

PRESENT DRAFT VS. LOTTERY

	Total Public
	Per Cent
Present draft	54
Lottery of 19-year-olds	31
Not sure	15

In this latest survey, as well as one last May, the public was asked:

"Do you think there is a lot of draft dodging going on today, some but not a lot, only a little or hardly any?"

EXTENT OF DRAFT DODGING

	April, 1968	May, 1967
	Per Cent	Per Cent
A lot of draft dodging	46	44
Some, not a lot	31	34
Only a little	12	8
Hardly any	4	5
Not sure	7	9

The group which feels that draft dodging is most prevalent is found among those families with someone now serving in the armed forces. A rather high 84 per cent of these families feel draft evasion exists on a large scale.

There is no doubt that the present draft has contributed to the unease and frustration which has surrounded the war in Vietnam. Those with relatives in the armed forces tend to feel that the burden has fallen inequitably on their families. This sentiment is shared by families with men about to be drafted.

Young people tend to disagree with the recent ending of deferment of graduate students. Students feel that the moral grounds of opposition to the war should be respected, but the public sharply disagrees.

In the end, the American people feel uncomfortably locked into a draft system which less than a majority say is fair, and yet they feel they have no viable alternative which they can say looks better than today's imperfect system.

the ball out of sight. This is something to watch when he is 20 feet from the pin.

Me, I average 94. Somewhere among the 18 holes, there are three catastrophes waiting for me. Sometimes they arrive early; sometimes late, but they are always waiting. When I feel low, I work up a game with Irving Tillis, who is a vice president like Hubert Humphrey. Tillis is generous. He will let you win. Even when he tries his hardest, you win.

Lessons fail

Sometimes I watch professionals like Nick Borsani and Ruffi Gonzalez giving lessons to duffers, and I learn nothing. The reason I learn nothing is because I am inherently stupid. It isn't humanly possible to learn a game, the first premise of which is that you cannot lift your head to see what you're doing.

All over the United States, from Missoula, Montana, to San Antonio, Texas, millions of men are out cutting up sod. There are women, too, but I prefer not to discuss women golfers.

I can understand the athletic masochism of the male, but I will never comprehend why an otherwise lovely female desires to stand with a shaft of wood in her hands, knees flexed, head down, feet apart, eyelashes on lips, paralyzed.

The only true friend I have on the golf course is some ghost named Mulligan...

Stories Behind Words

By William Penfield

Wrong Side of the Bed

It is sometimes said of a person in an ill humor that he "got up on the wrong side of the bed."

As far as is known, there has been no superstition or custom of getting up on the left or the right side of the bed, though the left, particularly in regard to one's feet and hands, was considered the bad side.

The key to the origin of "getting up on the wrong side of the bed" is in the phrase's jocularly.

Arising from the bed is the first act of starting the day. A grumpy person was looked upon as having started the day wrong. No matter from which side he left his bed, it was the wrong one.

Gin

The word "gin," which is the name of an alcoholic liquor, is a contraction of "geneva." "Geneva," in this sense, is not a reference to the Swiss city of the same name.

Long ago the practice of flavoring wine with the juice of juniper berries became popular in France. The Old French word for juniper was "genevre."

Later, in Holland juniper berries were mixed with grain malt to produce a drink that the Dutch called "genever."

The English adopted the Dutch word, but through careless pronunciation, rendered it "Genevra," which eventually was shortened to "Gin."

State spends $16,112,503 in county

(Record Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania poured an estimated $16,112,503 into Monroe County during the past fiscal year ending June 30, a check with the Legislature's Budget and Finance ("Watchdog") Committee revealed — down $4,376,423 from the preceding year.

The multi-million-dollar expenditure in the county during the 12-month period represents a host of state services, as exemplified by the following department — by department breakdown (preceding 12-month 1966-67 fiscal year expenditures are noted in parentheses):

— Agriculture: payments and indemnities including amounts paid to counties for marketing activities, plant industry and

Radio club members honored

WIND GAP — Red Cross First Aid Certificates were given to 21 members of the Blue Mountain Radio Club by James Sandt and Carl Mackey, Red Cross First Aid instructors.

The members, meeting in the Wind Gap Borough HALL LAST Sunday, also authorized the purchase of reflective road signs. The signs will be placed throughout the area to inform visiting motorists that Channel 9 will be the call channel for the area.

A welcoming committee was appointed to arrange a special program for returning servicemen who are members of the club.

The Blue Mountain Radio Club will host the Pennsylvania League of Emergency Associations May 19 and June 16 at 2 p.m. in the Wind Gap Borough Hall.

The 1967 Most Outstanding Award, a savings bond, was presented to Donald Everett.

Trophies were also presented to 1967 officers. They are Donald Everett, president; Alex Turczi, vice president; James Long, secretary; Harold Jones, treasurer. Donald Gold and Shirley VanBuskirk, directors. Mrs. Lucy Ann Gold received a trophy as editor of the club paper, the Blue Mountain Monitor and Bryan Bunbar, sergeant of arms for two years, also received a trophy.

54th annual meeting set for YMCA

STROUDSBURG — The 54th annual meeting of the YMCA of Monroe County will be held Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the YMCA.

Mrs. Ruth S. Harvey, committee chairwoman, announced the proposed program is planned. Robert L. Clark will serve as toastmaster.

The signing of the "Little Red Vest" trophy by the high team of the membership enrollment campaign will be one of the features. This honor goes to Captain Peter K. Emmons and his teammates, Gordon L. Coy, Richard M. Frantz, Jonas T. May, Dr. Nathan G. Meyer and Dr. Frank Sills.

Gerald E. Nelson, executive director of the Northeast District will bring greetings from the state YMCA.

A specially prepared annual report will feature the new YMCA emblem which has just been approved by the national council.

YMCA members and friends are invited to attend. Reservations are requested to be made by Saturday.

Other committee members serving with Mrs. Harvey are Clark and Louis Steen.

Couple files crash suit

STROUDSBURG — An East Stroudsburg couple has filed suit in Monroe County Court against Donald Singer, Stroudsburg R.D. 3, for damages that allegedly occurred as the result of an automobile accident November 4, 1967.

According to a complaint filed Thursday, Paul and Carolyn Sagar were the owners of a car parked in front of their residence at 203 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, when it was allegedly struck by the defendant driving south on Washington Street.

Plaintiff is seeking $588 in damages.

Chiropractic For Whiplash

By Dr. Thomas F. Snyder
Insurance Companies statistics show that whiplash injury is one which commonly damages the bones of the neck and shows further that the Chiropractor is eminently qualified to correct this damage.

Often after whiplash injuries, spinal bones become misaligned, cracked, or compressed and escape detection with ordinary X-rays. It is the Chiropractor who is specially trained to detect such injuries.

Whiplash injury to the neck may injure nerves which lead to other parts of the body and can cause paralysis of the arms or legs, headaches, nervousness etc., or produce problems long after the injury.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the scientific practice of Chiropractic, written by Dr. Thomas F. Snyder, Chiropractor, Brodheadsville, Pa. 18322. Phone: 992-4787.)

Stroud Club elects officers; tipped on charm and beauty

EFFORT — Mrs. Edward Mesko was installed as president of the Stroud Community Woman's Club at their annual banquet held at the Village Inn, Effort.

Mrs. Robert Hoffman, new president of the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs, installed Mrs. Mesko and other elected officers; Mrs. Robert Payne, first vice president; Mrs. John Sibley, second vice president; Mrs. John Hauser, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Shaw, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Vincent Fuscicardi, treasurer.

Mrs. George Butz, retiring president, welcomed members and guests and presided at the brief business meeting when members voted to increase the club's contribution to the Mental Health Wing at the hospital toward air conditioning to $250.

This is the club's major welfare project for the year.

It was also reported that the club had raised $400 on the recent art show. Mrs. Mesko presented Mrs. Butz with a gift of appreciation from the club.

The program, "Your Face is Your Fortune" arranged by Mrs. Ned Frick and featuring two speakers: one on charm and one on beauty.

Mrs. Joan Lloyd held out the challenge that anyone can achieve anything if they define what they really want and then think positively to achieve that goal.

She urged self awareness and then self improvement, not by adopting negative thoughts like "dieting is awful and I know I can't stick to it" but positive thoughts like "I want to be a size 10".

"We need not take blame but we must assume responsibility," she said, by giving up negative satisfactions like blaming someone else, fear of failure, and clinging to a bad experience.

"Instead, we must substitute good thoughts, and concentrate on living our lives. We can only give to our families what we have when we trust ourselves and rely on ourselves, not as martyrs."

The second speaker, Mrs. Rosemary Capshaw, demonstrated how to make the most of one's face, giving a four-step beauty care treatment to Mrs. George Litts, president of the Junior Woman's Club who was a guest at the meeting, with helpful hints on making the most of good points through cosmetics.

Ellen Regan president of Deanery

MOUNT POCONO — Miss Ellen Regan was elected president of the Monroe-Pike Deanery, Council of Catholic Women, at the Spring meeting held at St. Mary of the Mount Church, Mount Pocono.

Other officers elected were Mrs. James Bradley, first vice president; Mrs. Joseph Vigione, second vice president; Mrs. Ralph Kroeger, recording secretary; Mrs. Michael Kelemen, treasurer. They will be installed at the next meeting of the executive board.

Mrs. Marcel Van Lierde, retiring president, opened the meeting with prayer. Reports covering the achievements on spiritual, community and civic levels were given by the presidents of the ten affiliates. Each affiliate received Bishop Hannan Awards presented by Rev. John Walsh, moderator.

The guest speaker was Sister Mary Concepta of the Order of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, who spoke on "The Modern Nun". Entertainment was provided by the Folk Singers of Pocono Central Catholic Mission School.

Mrs. Alexander Karolyi, president of the host St. Mary's Altar and Rosary Society, welcomed the deanery and members of the society served refreshments after the meeting.

Miss Marie Brown, delegate-at-large reported on the recent convention of the Scranton Diocesan Council of Catholic Women at Marywood.

Dr. Nwokorie to speak to Hospital Aux.

STROUDSBURG — Dr. Iheanacho Nwokorie of the University of Lagos, Nigeria, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Auxiliary of the General Hospital of Monroe County.

The meeting will be held Tuesday, May 14 at 12:30 at the Stroud Community House.

Barrett Community Club fully staffed

BARRETT — Mrs. Ernest LaBar was installed as president of the Barrett Community Club at the last meeting. Mrs. Robert Hoffman, president of the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs, conducted the installation.

Other officers installed were Mrs. Russell Speicher, first vice president; Mrs. Lloyd Greer, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Sengle, recording secretary; Mrs. Donald Gibbins, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Thomas Lewis, Treasurer.

Four new members were inducted in a candlelight ceremony conducted by Mrs. Donald Gibbins, assisted by Mrs. Janet Brush, Mrs. Herbert Larsen, Mrs. Robert Sengle and Mrs. John Larsen.

New members are Mrs. Arthur Houseknecht, Mrs. John Ranze, Mrs. George Sopko and Mrs. Stephen Wagner. Other new members during the year unable to be present for the induction are Mrs. Clarence Dreisbach, Mrs. Willard Albert, Mrs. Lawrence Christenson, Mrs. Agnes Mangano and Mrs. Ivan Wicks Jr.

Involved in the many phases of club interests and activities are the committee chairmen: conservation, Mrs. Russell Speicher and Mrs. Raymond Jones; education, Mrs. Thomas Lewis and Mrs. Lawrence Wile;

Fine arts, Mrs. Sherwood Coffman; home life, health and mental health, Mrs. George Sopko; publicity, Mrs. Janet Brush and Mrs. Ernest LaBar; historian, Mrs. Leon Mayang; programs, Mrs. Lloyd Greer; cultural heritage, Mrs. Russell Speicher; publications, Mrs. Thomas Lewis; membership, Mrs. George Huguennin.

International affairs, Mrs. Thomas Lewis; hospitality, Mrs. Herbert Larsen; ways and means, Mrs. Arthur Houseknecht; auditing, Mrs. Dennis Quinn; county federation data, Mrs. David Blitz; advisor to Barrett Junior Woman's Club, Mrs. Arthur McCambridge.

Sunshine girl, Mrs. Michael Sopko; finance, Mrs. Carl Texter; yearbook, Mrs. Donald Gibbins and Mrs. Robert Sengle; parliamentarian, Mrs. Janet Brush; anniversary dinner, Mrs. John Larson; Christmas party, Mrs. Arthur Houseknecht.

Also named were representatives to various community organizations: Barrett Library Board, Mrs. Carl Texter; YMCA, Mrs. Arthur McCambridge; Park Commission, Mrs. Janet Brush; Taxpayers Assn., Miss Barbara Carlton; Township Supervisors, Mrs. Thomas Lewis and Mrs. John Larson; American Legion Aux., David Blitz; Halloween Parade, Mrs. Russell Speicher and Mrs. John Styk; Carnival Assn., Mrs. Henry Graham, Mrs. Donald Gibbins, Mrs. William Krummell and Mrs. Arthur McCambridge.

Greene-Dreher Club ends year with fashion party

NEWFOUNDLAND — A fashion party will highlight the final meeting for the season of the Greene-Dreher Woman's Club at the Newfoundland Elementary Center at 8:15 p.m. on May 14.

Co-hostesses for the meeting will be Frances VanBuskirk and Peggy Beehn, with these committee members: Edith Robacker, Anne Hinton, Esther Simons and Marjorie Woods.

No meetings will be held by the local club during the summer, with activities resuming in September, according to Mrs. Nancy Crocker, newly-installed president.

Volunteers from the Woman's Club are still needed to assist at the Newfoundland Area Public Library. Those who can give even one afternoon or evening occasionally, if not every week, will be most welcome, since the library is open every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon and evening, and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Dues are now payable to Mrs. Robert Miller, Newfoundland, Mrs. Crocker announced.

The Cancer Fund Campaign, spearheaded by the Woman's Club, concludes on May 15. Mrs. Jane Piteavage, chairman of the activity in Dreher Township has asked that the envelopes which are going from door to door in a new method of seeking funds be returned to her before May 15.

The envelopes were started at the "top" of each section of each area, and are to be passed from neighbor to neighbor until they reach a designated collection point. However, it is difficult for the chairman to determine exactly where the envelopes have stopped when they stop short of the end point.

Junior Women's installation

STROUDSBURG — Newly elected officers of the Stroudsburg Junior Woman's Club were installed by Mrs. Robert Hoffman, president of the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs at the annual business meeting.

Accepting offices were president, Mrs. James Staples; first vice president, Mrs. Carl Adelmann; second vice president, Mrs. Robert Eilenberger; recording secretary, Mrs. Harold Bentzoni; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Robert Miller; and treasurer, Mrs. Jack Wallie.

Mrs. Carl Adelmann, welfare chairman, reported that among other welfare projects of this past year, the club had supplied homemade cookies to the county home each month and had held a Valentine party for the residents of the home.

At Christmas the club gave each child of the Children's Bureau a contribution of $2.50.

The profit from the Polles will be distributed to the Monroe County Library and the Kiwanis Pre-School.

Mrs. Ralph Harrison announced that she will accept reservations for the Spring banquet until Friday, May 17. The banquet will be held Saturday, May 25 at Vacation Valley at 7:30 p.m.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

I hope somebody tells Joan Lloyd that it didn't work. At the Stroud Community Woman's Club banquet she gave a very convincing talk on how you could be anything you wanted to be, look anyway you wanted to look, if you defined your goals and then thought positively to reach those goals.

She ended by asking everybody to promise that the next morning she would jump out of bed, look in the bathroom mirror and tell herself "You're beautiful".

Maybe it worked for other people, but for me there were complicating circumstances. In the first place, having returned to write the story after the meeting, it was tomorrow morning before I went to bed.

Therefore when the alarm went off, there was no leaping like a gazelle but a sort of sluggish stirring like in those late night science fiction movies where the primeval ooze slirs and boils and up from the depths slowly emerges this prehistoric monster dripping slime.

And when I said to my mirror "You're beautiful" that's the picture it gave back to me. Beautiful only to another dinosaur, I thought sadly. The trouble with that mirror is that it's too truthful, especially with fluorescent lighting. Generally, we studiously avoid each other unless it's absolutely necessary for stuff like putting on lipstick, and by then the worst is over.

Well, anyway, my hair is combed.

I heartily agree with Mrs. Lloyd's philosophy of positive thinking but in my case there will have to be some modification. I think I'd do better to wait until late at night, choose the wavy hair mirror in moonlight and tell myself: "You're wonderful: you made it through another May day".

Aura Hoffman will have even more reasons for congratulating herself on getting through May. As the new president of the county federation she's successfully installed three sets of officers with three more to go. All I've had to do is record the facts, and it's purely coincidental that all three should appear on the same page on the same day.

I understand they are making paper maternity dresses these days. That's quite an innovation in an industry where the Peter Pan collar and the laundry-bag waistband have been king for 25 years.

Ladies in waiting in earlier times had no problem of attire. They simply hid behind a bigger fig leaf, moved to the back of the cave or sat in a rocker for nine months. Around the turn of the century, they told me, women simply bought a bigger corset and prepared to strain at the staves.

The first maternity clothes were rather nondescript, and so one woman would say to another upon hearing of her forthcoming birth, "Welcome to the shroud crowd." As women became more active, maternity clothes began to take style and practicality. The hung-up (literally) was always the stomach.

One designer figures if you put a piece of elastic around a waistband, the waistband would give. He obviously knew nothing about the law of gravity. As the waistband expanded, the skirt level in the front would rise as much as three inches before it crested.

Two piece suit
Another designer came out with the two-piece suit. He solved the mystery of the problem stomach by simply cutting a hole in the skirt. This was wonderful until a woman decided to raise her arms. Then her entire stomach was exposed. Drawstrings also caused some consternation among doctors. Some, in their drive to deliver the baby, were so hindered by knotted strings held together with safety pins a baby was often carried into its 10th month.

Everything has been tried in the name of style... the large pleat which makes a woman look pregnant when she is a scant two weeks along... the inverted tent which designers say you can wear after the baby comes. (Designers say it, but your best friend will inquire, "When's the baby due?" when the kid is two years old.)... or the peek-a-boo buttons that you let out one at a time.

Department store buyers tell me there are maternity lingerie, evening clothes, bathing suits and tennis dresses. (The latter comes in sizes of small, medium and Ethel Kennedy, who plays right up until birth.) There are also calls for maternity wedding dresses, but I don't want to talk about that.

My concern is the paper maternity dress. The idea of discarding them and having a variable wardrobe probably sounded great, but mark my word, they'll never catch on. Paper maternity dresses are guaranteed to be waterproof, mothproof and fireproof. And who wants a maternity dress you can't set fire to after the baby comes?

Ann Landers

Question for queen

Dear Ann Landers: The junior class at our high school has a problem we think can best be solved by you.

There is this yearly dance at our school called the Spring Prom. The queen is selected by popular vote. Each year the new queen is crowned by last year's queen. The problem is that last year's queen is unmarried and five months pregnant.

There was a big flap about allowing this girl to stay in school. The authorities decided they would be broad-minded and overlook her condition because she is so close to graduation. None of us objects to her presence, but we don't know if it would be right to let her crown the new queen. She will be in her seventh month when the coronation takes place. What do you say?

WAITING FOR WORD
Dear Word: It's awfully hard — like impossible — for me to believe that the girl would want to participate in the coronation under the circumstances. Why don't you ask her? If she says yes, write again, she's got problems more serious than her pregnancy.

Dear Ann Landers: This will probably seem like a silly problem to you but it is giving me ulcers. I've been married only 18 months and it seems like 18 years. Why? Because ever since we came home from our honeymoon Frank has been sitting around every night watching TV in his underwear. When the doorbell rings he runs and hides and yells, "You get it."

I realize he's tired from going to school all day, but I'm tired from working in an office. And when I come home there is dinner to get, laundry, housework—the whole bit. Yet I have the strength to change from day clothes to a house dress or a neat little smock.

Frank insists a man's home is his castle and he wants to be comfortable. Since we get to see each other only a few hours a day don't you think he should pay some attention to how he looks in my eyes? Thanks for your help.

FANNIE
Dear Fannie: Slacks and a sports shirt are comfortable. And so is a robe. Maybe if you buy him a new turtle-neck sweater or a Japanese kimono he'll wear the. Give it a try.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 18 years of age and am joining the ranks of those who wish to air a pet peeve. Will you listen and advise?

A relative of mine has a habit that drives me nuts and ruins my appetite. Whenever food is served she cuts everything up into small pieces. It looks like garbage. I have seen some ill-mannered people dice up meat — but banana cream pie?

Should I tell her. Thank you I feel better already.

GREEN AROUND THE GILLS
Dear Green: If the relative is your age or younger, tell her. If she is older — look somewhere else and keep quiet.

Confidential to Testing Your Memory: I remember it well. It went like this: "When your mind makes a commitment your body can't fill, you're over the hill, Brother, over the hill."

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50-cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Orchestra to feature concert

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Chamber Orchestra will be heard in a symphonic concert to be presented on Sunday, May 19, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium at East Stroudsburg State College.

The program for this concert will be more ambitious and more musicians will be taking part than in any concert given by this organization thus far.

Wilfred G. Clelland of the ESSC music department will lead the orchestra in such representative numbers as the Suite on "English Folk Tunes" by Vaughn Williams, the Double Concerto for two solo violins and orchestra by Johann Sebastian Bach and Symphony Number Five, Op. 64, in "E" minor by Peter Tchaikowski.

The Pocono Chamber Orchestra is a Pocono Area orchestra.

Agency holds annual meeting

TIRAC to form advisories

BARRYVILLE, N.Y. — Seven resolutions were adopted by the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council Assembly (TIRAC) during a regular meeting Saturday morning in Reber's Restaurant, Barryville, N.Y.

The adopted resolutions are:
One — Establishment of an Electrical Energy advisory group.
Two — Establishment of a law enforcement planning advisory group.
Three — Formation of a regional conference.
Four — Creation of a TIRAC travel policy.

Five — Authorizing the hiring of Richard Toth, a professor at Pennsylvania University who has just joined the faculty of Harvard College.

Six — Authorizing hiring the planning firm of Candeb, Fleissig and Associates.

Seven — Authorizing retention of attorney Samuel W. Newman as TIRAC's solicitor.

The electrical energy advisory group was formed to promote a liaison and cooperation with the planning and elected officials and electric companies within the seven-county TIRAC region. Representatives from seven regional electrical firms met with TIRAC's executive committee late in March to discuss the formation of such a group.

The law enforcement advisory group was formed to discuss and plan for the long range law enforcement needs of the region.

The assembly unanimously decided that another regional conference should be conducted June 8 to inform regional residents of projects being conducted by TIRAC and why. The conference, for which no location has yet been determined, will be similar to the four-day conference conducted last fall.

The assembly adopted the last three resolutions on the condition that they become official only when TIRAC receives its $90,000 allocation from the federal 701 grant.

The financial reimbursement for traveling policy was adopted after a federal auditor complained that there was no such policy. The reimbursement will be 10 cents per mile. Frank Dressler, executive director of TIRAC, said that the auditor had reviewed TIRAC's books for eight days last March.

Hiring Professor Toth at a salary not to exceed $3,000 annually, Newman as solicitor at a salary not to exceed $2,250 and again retaining the planning firm of Candeb, Fleissig and Associates, are all contingent on receiving the federal 701 grant allocation. The planning firm would receive a maximum $45,000.

Progress reports were also given to assembly members on the solid waste and Tocks Island Regional Environmental studies. Robert C. Porter gave a progress report on the waste study while Dr. C. H. Hull gave a report on the environmental study.

Joseph Lilly of Orange County, N.Y., vice chairman of TIRAC, presided over Saturday's session.

United Church meeting opens

POCONO MANOR — Dr. Everett C. Parker, who is nationally known for leading the Christian effort against extremist programs on television and radio, Sunday night addressed the opening banquet of the Penn Northeast conference of the United Church of Christ at Pocono Manor Inn.

Dr. Parker, director of communications for the church, heads the unique newspaper advertising program for the UCC which has been appearing in this paper and a number of others in Northeastern Pennsylvania for the past several months.

It is aimed primarily at informing the public just what the United Church stands for.

Sunday night, Dr. Parker summarized the pioneering program of the church on civil rights, war, youth and working in unity with other churches.

'Y' dinner set Tuesday

STROUDSBURG — J. Donald Shreve Jr., executive director of Junior Achievement of Lehigh Valley Inc., will speak during the annual dinner-meeting of the Monroe County YMCA in the Stroudsburg 'Y' Tuesday night. The affair will start at 7 p.m.

A graduate of Rutgers University, Shreve quarterbacked the Scarlet's 150-pound football team.

Shreve was a fighter pilot during World War II, serving in the European Theatre from 1942-45.

He is a member of the Allentown Rotary Club, Northwestern Lehigh School Board and the Weisenberg Recreation Assn.

Junior Achievement, Inc., is devoted to training young men for industry.

Tuesday's program will also include remarks by 'Y' president Richard Frantz, musical numbers by students from the Stroudsburg Area School District, and a report from YMCA Secretary Pierce Harley. Robert L. Clark will serve as toastmaster.

The executive board also announced that a monthly news letter will be published in the near future under the direction of Robert Carden, Ernest Carrelia, Charles Dellaria and Richard Wolbert.

STROUDSBURG — New officers will be nominated at 8 p.m. tonight during a regular meeting of the Father John T. Butler Council, Knights of Columbus.

The executive board also announced that a monthly news letter will be published in the near future under the direction of Robert Carden, Ernest Carrelia, Charles Dellaria and Richard Wolbert.

East Stroudsburg honors retirees

Teachers urged to become politically active

POCONO MANOR — Pennsylvania's teachers should become more politically-minded in order to obtain beneficial legislation, more than 100 persons were told Saturday night by Joseph Standa, president of the Pennsylvania State Education Assn. (PSEA).

Standa was the keynote speaker at the annual East Stroudsburg teachers' retirement dinner sponsored by the East Stroudsburg Education Assn.

The 115 persons attending the dinner at Pocono Manor honored three retiring teachers. They are:

Grant Bartholomew of 37 N. Sixth St., Stroudsburg; Mrs. Martha Martin of 238 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, and Mrs. Mabel Miller of Braeside Ave., East Stroudsburg. The three teachers have a total 90 years service.

Standa told the gathering that Pennsylvania's teachers have a large voting power, citing that there are a total 102,000 teachers in the state. All of these are not members of the PSEA.

If the state's teachers become more politically-minded, Standa explained, they would have a better chance in having the legislature meet their demands.

Standa reiterated that the teachers, united in a force, would stand a better chance of obtaining a minimum $6,000 annual salary and better working conditions.

Citing his past experiences with unions in private enterprise (he is a former steel worker), Standa said when other union members go on strike no one objects, but when teachers strike people state that they don't have that right.

Douglas Schoonover, president of the East Stroudsburg PSEA, was master of ceremonies.

Senator Jeanette Reibman and State Rep. Russell Kowalshyn attended the retirement dinner.

Joel Hiegel, field representative of the PSEA for the Northeastern District, also attended and described the recent election in Pittsburgh, where teachers voted to be represented by a union or the PSEA.

Riegel explained that there will be a run-off election since the election was close. The PSEA received more votes, but not a clear majority to win.

Mrs. Pauline Peterson, district superintendent of the East Stroudsburg School District, presented gifts to the three retiring teachers.

Irving Sommer, president of the East Stroudsburg Board of Education, also gave brief remarks.

Senator Reibman said she felt any increases in teachers' salaries had to be made on a cooperative basis between legislators, teachers and other interested parties.

She said improving the educational picture in Pennsylvania was the number one task facing the general assembly. She said that when dealing with the many-faceted problem, priorities must be established.

She emphasized the need to keep good teachers in the state and said a good professional staff is vital to a well-rounded education.

Rep. Kowalshyn praised the teachers "for the good job you are doing." Kowalshyn said he was thankful that he received a good education and said several teachers played a role in his development.

St. John's plays host

Psychedelic rite 'real cool'

STROUDSBURG — The electrifying mod beat of four guitars and a drum boomed up from the chancel, bounced off the long, thin wrought iron cross above the altar and floated psychedelically out through a rapt 250-member Sunday night audience in St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

It was entitled "The Mod Mod World of Christ," featuring The Marigold Circus, a quintet from Allentown, protest readings and films of despairing Negroes, a white man's disintegration and a frustrated man and a chair becoming fast friends.

Sponsored by the Inter-Faith Committee of the Clergy Association of Monroe County, the electric service gave its audience, a majority of Monroe County teenagers, a an identification with kaleidoscopic joy as multi-colored lights played back and forth across the chancel of the church.

On the church's walls were signs, "Howl My Soul," "Celebrate With All Your Might," and "Crucified, Dead and Buried and On The Third Day He Rose Again."

Clergy sponsors were the Rev. Philip Juris, Hamilton Square Lutheran Church; the Rev. John Bendik, St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church, East Stroudsburg, and Intern Dan Anderson, St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

Area boys and girls read brief protest speeches between the vibrant offerings from the quintet. The speeches denounced the hypocritical mouthings of their elders in the arena of race relations, and unjust wars past and present.

One excellent film wandered down through the urban Negro slums of some large American city. It captured the dazed and perplexed faces of Negroes old and young. It made them what they are: invisible and anonymous to their white majority.

Another film followed a hunted man running away from the hunter, a man in black with dark glasses. The escapee kept racing down through city streets, stopping now and then for something to eat, gobbling up hamburger after hamburger at an amusement park, wading across a river and ending up on a beach.

The man in black came down on the beach and drew closer until the other man fell back into a sandy pit which was dug by his double. Then the audience realized that the hunter was in reality the hunted, all three faces belonging to the same man.

The film ended with hands, crossed and crablike, clutching sand as they disappeared from view.

The service reached out and down into the teenager's world. Although most teenagers said it would never replace the normal church service, it still gave them an opportunity to express their particular mood of momentary joy and exuberance.

Quite a few adults were given an insight into the mystifying realm of youth. Although they were not too sure of what was going on from one moment to the next, they still felt that youth was served and had its day in the electric world of the modern day psychedelic beat.

Boy, 7, darts into car's path

STROUDSBURG — A seven-year-old Paplar Valley boy was struck by a car Sunday night when he reportedly darted out in front of an oncoming car.

The driver of the car was Brent J. Shaler, 16, of Stroudsburg R.D. 4.

The youth, identified as Hans Schmidt, was taken to General Hospital of Monroe County where he was treated and released.

Stroud Twp. police were not available for comment.

Gap council meets today

DELAWARE WATER GAP — The Delaware Water Gap Borough Council will hold a special meeting today at 8 p.m. in the borough firehall.

Driver, 16, loses control

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Twp. Police investigating a one-car accident Friday at 10:15 p.m. on Chipperfield Drive, near N. Fifth Street, reported no injuries.

The driver, Walter C. Karchner III, 16, of 63 Prospect St., East Stroudsburg, was traveling north on Chipperfield Drive when his car rounded a curve and he lost control.

Karchner lost control of the car, crossed the highway, and ran into a ditch.

No estimate of damage was given.

Eight ordered for induction

STROUDSBURG — Eight Monroe County men have been ordered to report for induction into the armed forces Thursday by Local Board 105, Selective Service.

They are William H. Custed, Larry D. Edinger, Richard J. Cortright, Arthur E. Gussell, James T. Winston, John M. MacLeod, Charles R. Stokes and Gary R. Bergman.

Knights nominate officers tonight

STROUDSBURG — New officers will be nominated at 8 p.m. tonight during a regular meeting of the Father John T. Butler Council, Knights of Columbus.

The executive board also announced that a monthly news letter will be published in the near future under the direction of Robert Carden, Ernest Carrelia, Charles Dellaria and Richard Wolbert.

Bangor wins 1st L-N title

PEN ARGYL — Bangor High gained firsts in the final three events Saturday afternoon to capture its first Lehigh-Northampton League track championship.

The late spurt gave the Slaters and coach Charlie Sandwick 40 points as pared to 45½ for Parkland and 40 for Hellertown.

Kim Bellis figured in two of the three Bangor wins as he took the long jump, teammate Frank Scagliola was second, and also ran the anchor leg in the mile relay which decided the final outcome. John Swope won the discus to account for the third key victory.

The individual star of the meet was Hellertown's Greg Stauffer won the 100, 220 and 440. His time of 0:22.05 broke the meet mark of 0:22.2 and his 0:10.1 tied the mark in the 100.

Bob Donchez of Hellertown also took a pair of firsts, the shot put and discus. Other first place winners were Nazareth's Ron Musselman (javelin), Les Tamandi of Nazareth, 880 and mile, and the Panthers' Larry Patta in the high jump.

Larry Gordon accounted for East Stroudsburg's lone point with a fifth in the long jump while Nate Reddicks was fifth in the 440 to get Pocono Mountain on the board.

Bob Seagren clears 17-6½

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Southern California's Bob Seagren served notice he should eclipse the world pole vault record this season when he cleared 17-6½ at the West Coast Relays.

The University senior, who has gone 17-7 and holds the indoor world mark at 17-4½, boosted his meet mark by three quarters of an inch but missed trying for a world mark at 17-8½.

This came despite gusty winds which spoiled many efforts during the chilly Saturday evening, including the Villanova bid for a world two-mile relay record.

Villanova's two-mile team anchored by Dave Patrick ran in 7 minutes 23.5 seconds but the anchor man declared, "The weather threw a curve at us. The wind was very detrimental."

Villanova has run 7:21.8 this season and hoped to beat the Russian-held world record of 7:16.

The bidding:

Opening lead — king of hearts.

This deal occurred many years ago in Italy. Declarer was Mical Giovine, co-inventor of the Maric system. The contract was six spades and he went down one.

Disturbed by the outcome, since he could have made the slam, Giovine next day presented the North-South cards to Jean Besse, famous Swiss star, and asked him to play the hand.

Besse also went down and so did Roger Trezel, Pierre Jais, Adam Meredith and many other well known European experts who were asked by Besse to play the hand. Only Fritz Goudsmit of Holland found the right line of play.

This extraordinary series of failures is even more remarkable when you consider that the correct method of play is clear-cut once it is pointed out. For some reason or other, the hand produces a blind spot.

South should ruff the heart lead in dummy, cash the A-K of clubs, discarding the jack of hearts, and ruff East's queen of clubs with the ace of spades.

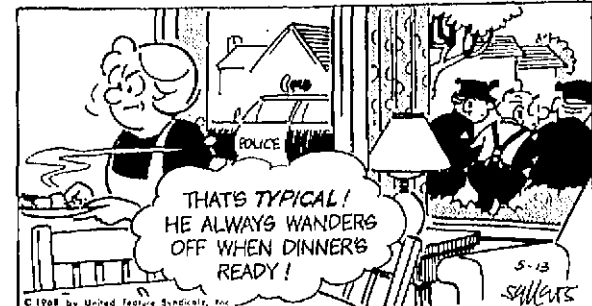

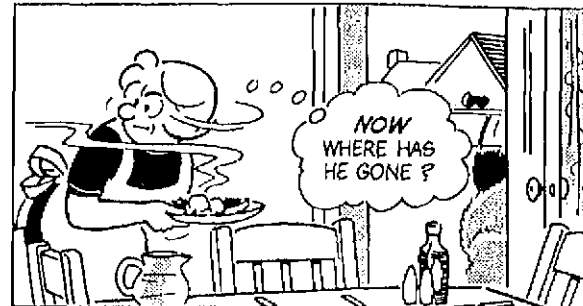

He then plays a trump to the queen and discards the queen of hearts on the fourth round of clubs. It cannot matter whether the spades were originally divided 3-1 or 2-2, since the contract is now certain regardless of what is returned after the club is ruffed.

Dummy's king of spades is an entry for the two remaining club tricks and there is only one trump outstanding.

The suggested line of play is far more likely to succeed than any other method. It wins whenever the defenders' cards are divided normally, that is, when the clubs break 3-2 (68 per cent) and when the spades are divided either 2-2 or 3-1 (80 per cent).

There is nothing complicated about the hand, but, for some reason or other, most of the experts fell down on the job.

JACK O'BRIAN'S

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Theatre tycoon Walter Reade and spouse divorced after 20 years and his next feature already is booked . . . Opera diva Elaine Malbin and George Emanuel welcomed their own future diva . . . Fewer than 100 showed up for the Maharishi's concert with the Beach Boys in Queens so it was cancelled . . . The Beat Generation turning off? The Rock-club Generation cooled it less than three weeks after making the obscene.

Woody Allen took a huge house in Belvedere, Calif. (where he's shooting his "Take the Money and Run" film) but can't get help so he has to go out to eat . . . Rowan and Martin may be the "stars" of their TV Laugh-in but "Flip" Wilson was 10 times as funny . . . The Monkees' film "Untitled" hired Sonny Liston whose robe was stolen, name on back neverthing.

The list of hyper-active octogenarians hereabouts is delightful: Sol Hurok at 80 booking more classical concerts than anytime in his life; Irving Berlin just finished 11 new songs for his "Say It With Music" film for Julie Andrews; Rube Goldberg's 85 with a one-man sculpture show at the Hammer Galleries; John Royal still is an active consultant at NBC (he's the finest showman we've ever met in any phase of entertainment; he's handled it all) and Jim Farley partied by Coca-Cola boss Robert Woodruff on his 80th — and still chairman of Coca-Cola International.

Newest very beautiful model (as opposed to novelties such as Twiggy, Penelope Tree, Baby Jane Helzer) hitting the chic-top is 22-year-old Eva Chin, half German, a quarter each, Chinese and Negro. They say she "can't miss," and is the "most exotic of 'poseuses'."

Hubert Humphrey at his big-business-lunchon at "21" gave it his executive stamp as one of "the most magnificent places in this country"; he could have said the world . . . Turkish-born Albert Alberts is tossing New York's most unusual Mother's Day party — for Belly Dancers, at 169th St. and Jerome Ave.

Jackie Gleason is rumored about to Away We Go from his Miami Beach Hotel consultancy . . . Sue Lyon came to New York to study draymah and quit already . . . His Waldorf date (May 31) will contribute to Trini Lopez' 1968 gross of more than a million.

If Soul Singer Lou Rawls' wife Lana has the twins her doctor forecasts for May 11, it should be an interesting May 11 aloft for Pan Am: that's when Lou and Lana are booked to London for his first European tour . . . Texas GOP chairman Peter O'Donnell will switch to Rocky . . . His delegation was split Nixon-Reagan . . . The Dick Cathcart's (Peggy of Lawrence Welk's Lennon Sisters) expect their baby in June . . . Patrick McGeehan of television and "Ice Station Zebra" is considered British but he's actually New York-born of naturalized Irish immigrants . . . Stiller and Meara (the Irish-Jewish married comic team) will campaign for RPK in a dozen cities: Bobby's office approached them.

Ronald Reagan's and Jane Wyman's daughter Maureen cut her first record in Nashville — and for a proper label as daughter of a Republican — Lincolin Records . . . The "Hammerhead" producers try and try to build up Vince Edwards as a tough-guy Bogart-type but he sounds less tough than brittle: broke his leg, sprained a wrist and busted a knuckle in his fight-scenes.

110 part of hike by cubs

TANNERSVILLE — Cub Scout, Pack 85 of Tannersville held its meeting in the Pocono Township firehall, with a display of anti-litter signs decorating the meeting room, following the monthly theme, "Keep America Beautiful".

The pack took part in a hike recently from Hipsie Gap to Big Pocono State Park, with 110 cubs and parents participating.

Awards were given to the following scouts: Bobby Hunt, Webelos colors; William Peechotka, Wyatt Snyder, Douglas Widdoss, John Alleger, Harry Horn and Randy Johnson received Webelos award and graduation certificate.

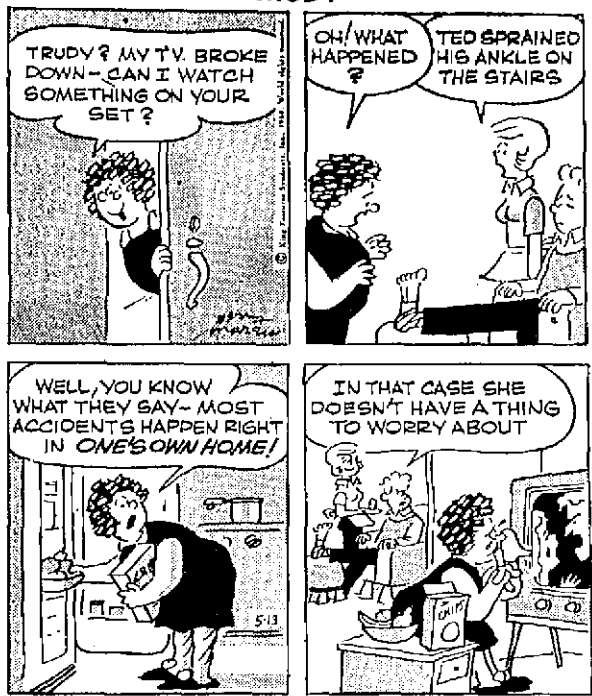

Activity badges

Activity badges were earned by the following scouts: Robert Casperson, artist, sportsman, engineer and traveler; Avon Doll, for artist and sportsman; Randy Johnson for artist and sportsman; Chris Leauber, artist and sportsman; Richard Wallingford, artist, sportsman and showman; John Butz, artist, naturalist, forester, and engineer; Jerry Youngken, naturalist, forester and engineer; Harry Horn, for engineer.

Prizes were given for the candy sales contest with top prizes going to Jimmy Mugroski for selling 15 cases of candy. Second prize to Billy DeHaven and third prize to Paul Plattenburg. Mrs. John DeHaven who was in charge of the candy sales presented the prizes.

Living costs rise

ROME (AP) — Italy's cost of living rose in the first quarter, to 151.29 from 150.66 in the previous quarter, but it wasn't enough to increase take-home pay. Under the cost-of-living bonus system each point rise means an increase of 12.30 to 36.46 lire—2 to 6 cents—a day in salaries, depending on category. The base 100 was established in 1956.

Army Depot extends invitation to public

TOBYHANNA — Tobyhanna Army Depot Commander Col. Paul R. Poulin has invited the public to attend the depot's Armed Forces Week Open House, beginning today.

Guided tours will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., today through Friday. Part of each tour will be by bus and tourmobile.

In his invitation, Col. Poulin said in part: If you've never been to the depot, this is a wonderful opportunity to see the vital part we play in support of our servicemen around the world.

"If you have visited here before, there are several features that are new this year. For one thing, we have a new queen and princesses. They will welcome you and start your tour in a most attractive way.

"Also, in the lobby of the Administration building we'll have a number of interesting displays. One you won't want to miss is an exhibit of antiquities furnished from the collection of Don Edwards, a depot employee. This display features some iron nails that are more than 1,900 years old. It is believed that similar nails were used by the Romans in the crucifixion of Christ.

"Most of our 23 repair shops will also have displays.

"For visitors who wish to have lunch in our cafeteria, each day at noon, the Toby Tones, the depot's choral group, will entertain.

Pre-school clinics set for children

SWIFTWATER — The Pocono Mountain School District will hold pre-school clinics for kindergarten aged children in each Elementary Center. The schedule is as follows:

Tobyhanna — Today; Coolbaugh—May 14, 15; Pocono, May 16 and 17; Barrelet, May 20 and 21.

Any child who is five years before Jan. 31, 1969 and is planning on entering kindergarten in September 1968 should be scheduled for a clinic day. Letters have been sent to the parents by the school for appointments.

If any parents have a child of this age and have not received a letter, they should call the school in their area for an appointment time.

East Germany returns prisoner

BERLIN (AP) — Peter T. Feinauer, a 28-year-old American sentenced as a spy for the Central Intelligence Agency, was turned over to U. S. officials in West Berlin Friday after spending 19 months in East German confinement.

Feinauer told newsmen he had been well treated by the East Germans but had apparently suffered some loss of memory during his detention.
